

MEET THE PAIN PHYSICIANS AT THE WESLEY

The Wesley Hospital provides a number of clinical services for people with chronic or persistent pain. If you are interested in attending our pain management program or our rehabilitation services, you first need to meet with one of our specialised pain physicians. Their contact details and areas of particular interest are listed below:

Dr Nicholas Aitcheson

Dr Aitcheson is a Rehabilitation and Pain Medicine Physician who splits his work time between his public role as Director for the Metro South Pain Rehabilitation Centre and the Wesley Hospital Pain and Spine Centre. He is a Senior Lecturer with The University of Queensland School of Medicine and a member of the Hopkins Centre Research Engagement Council. His special interests include 'pain system hypersensitivity', whole person pain rehabilitation, pain reframing education, complex regional pain syndrome and central neuropathic pain.
